Mylinda Baits

International Ministries

Mylinda Baits is a regional missionary with particular focus on issues of human trafficking in the Iberoamerica-Caribbean region. For over 12 years Mylinda and her husband Gary served in Costa Rica focusing on leadership development, theological training and networking for social change. Witnessing firsthand the sexual tourism industry and hearing the stories of its impact on the lives of countless women and children in the region, Mylinda will expand her focus to promote regional collaboration for the prevention and eradication of this modern day slave trade thriving in our own backyard.

Mylinda hopes to create safe and sacred places where significant conversations and community in Christ can happen. She invites all of us to join her and her Latin American cultural mentors as they co-labor to uplift and empower at-risk women and children through the love of Christ.

Mylinda also has a passion for using art in storytelling and healing. She enjoys facilitating retreats that help others delve further into their own stories and the love of God.
